Convocation Guidelines

Akal University | Student information guide | Prepared 31 October 2026

1. How to use this guide

Convocation procedures are event-specific. Dates, eligible graduating batches, registration forms, fees, rehearsal, dress, guest arrangements and degree delivery can change each year. Follow the most recent Akal University convocation notice and linked circulars. This guide records the current public information reviewed and explains how to follow a future notice.

2. Published 2026 event (historical)

Akal University announced its 5th Convocation for 19 April 2026 at the University campus, Talwandi Sabo. That date has passed. The event page, posted 31 March 2026, linked the convocation notice, registration form, attendance guidelines, eligible-student list, and medal lists. Do not use the 2026 date, form, or eligibility list for a future ceremony.

3. Check eligibility

1. Open the current event notice from https://auts.ac.in/announcements/ or the Convocation/Alumni section of auts.ac.in.

2. Check the ceremony's eligible-student list. Eligibility is set by the University and may depend on completion/award approval and the graduating examination period stated in the notice.

3. Check the spelling of your name, programme, award level and any medal status. If your name is missing or incorrect, contact the Examination Branch promptly with your roll/AUID number and final result evidence.

4. Do not treat completion of course work or publication of a result alone as proof that a student is on the ceremony's approved list.

4. Registration steps

Follow the current notice, not a prior year's process. If it provides an online registration form:

1. Enter your name exactly as it should appear on the degree and provide your AUID/enrolment number, programme, contact details and attendance choice as requested.

2. Confirm whether the form is for degree recipients, alumni meet participants, or both. These may have separate registrations or fees.

3. Upload only the items requested and review the form before submitting.

4. Pay only the amount and by the method specified in the current circular. Save the receipt and registration confirmation.

5. Note the closing date and any separate deadline for corrections, guest registration, gown collection, or degree delivery.

The 2026 event page linked a registration form, but current or future dates and charges must be taken from the corresponding notice.

5. Attendance, rehearsal and academic dress

Read the event guidelines for reporting time, registration desk, identity/document checks, rehearsal, seating, academic costume, dress expectations, guests, photography and security. If rehearsal is compulsory, arriving only for the main ceremony may not qualify as completing the in-person degree procedure. The 2024 notice, for example, specified advance registration and rehearsal, costume arrangements and a reporting time; those were historical instructions and should not be assumed to apply to another year.

Carry the registration confirmation, student/photo ID, and any requested original or proof of completion. Arrive early enough for check-in and follow campus directions in the current notice.

6. If you cannot attend

Check the current circular for a non-attendance option. If none is stated, contact the Examination Branch before the ceremony and ask:

- Whether the degree can be collected later from the University.

- Whether collection by an authorized representative is allowed.

- Whether dispatch is available, how to request it, and whether charges apply.

- Whether any form, ID, no-dues status or proof of address is needed.

Do not assume that failure to attend cancels the degree award; ask the University how and when the physical certificate can be obtained.

7. Fees, deadlines and degree distribution

Registration fees, alumni fees, gown deposits/rentals, guest charges and payment cut-offs are announced for each event. There is no reliable standing annual amount or deadline. Read every linked circular and retain receipts. The public 2026 landing page lists linked documents but does not summarize all event terms; open the notice and attendance guidelines themselves.
