Degree Certificate Guidelines

Akal University | Student information guide | Prepared 31 October 2026

1. What this guide covers

This guide covers obtaining the formal degree certificate after completing an Akal University programme. The University publishes ceremony-specific eligible-degree lists and an e-Sanad process for verification of certificates. Public material reviewed did not specify a universal application form, routine degree issue fee, or processing time for graduates seeking the degree certificate outside convocation. Confirm the route for your case with the Examination Branch.

2. Confirm completion and eligibility

Before applying, make sure the final result is declared and all programme requirements are completed. Check whether any required practical, internship, dissertation, viva, credit, examination, fee or library/hostel clearance remains outstanding. Ask the Examination Branch whether the award has been formally approved and whether your name is on the eligible list for the next convocation.

The convocation list is event-specific. If your name or result details are missing or incorrect, contact the Branch in writing with your AUID/enrolment number, roll number, programme and supporting result documents.

3. Choose the correct route

- Degree award at convocation: Follow the current convocation announcement, eligibility list, registration form and deadlines. Attendance requirements, academic dress and collection rules are set for each ceremony.
- Degree not collected at convocation: Contact the Examination Branch to confirm post-convocation collection or dispatch procedure.

- Need official verification/attestation: Akal University's e-Sanad page provides a transcript/document verification process. That is a verification/attestation route and should not be mistaken for applying for an unissued degree certificate.

- Lost or damaged degree: Use the duplicate certificate procedure; see the companion Duplicate DMC / Degree Guidelines and obtain the current official form/checklist from the Branch.

4. Information to have ready

When contacting or applying, provide your name as recorded in University records, AUID/enrolment and roll numbers, programme and department, admission and completion years, final examination session, current phone/email/address, and what you need (degree award, collection, dispatch, verification, correction or duplicate). Attach clear copies only when requested. Ask whether originals must be presented for inspection and whether a no-dues clearance or proof of identity is needed.

5. Application and follow-up

1. Ask the Examination Branch for the correct application form and whether your request should go to the Controller of Examinations, Registrar or another office.

2. Confirm the supporting documents, clearance requirements, fee (if any), official payment channel and expected processing time before submission.

3. Submit through the stated channel. Keep a copy of the form, all enclosures, payment proof and a dated acknowledgement/reference number.

4. If there is no update after the estimated period, follow up using that reference number. Record the date and name/office contacted.

5. When you receive the certificate, verify your name, programme, award, completion date and certificate details immediately. Report discrepancies in writing; do not alter the certificate.

6. Fees and processing time

No standard routine degree issue fee or processing time was found in the public instructions reviewed. Akal University's online fee page lists a “Degree Fee” category, but that page does not by itself establish the amount due for an individual student's degree. Ask the University to confirm the current charge and payment instructions. The e-Sanad page's ₹500-per-certificate fee is for verification and processing in that workflow, not automatically the fee for issuing a degree.
